

Symone Challenger

Symone was born in Toronto, Canada- to from parents of Jamaican and St. Kitt descent. She was scouted on Christmas Eve in H&M, in one of Toronto's biggest shopping malls. She quickly signed with an agency after meeting the team the following week and started work quickly. Before signing, Symone's priorities were finishing high school and going on to study Criminology in University. Symone's dream of becoming a lawyer to help the tough community she grew up in was put on pause after her first year in university because of her success working in lucrative modelling industry!

Life took even more of an unexpected change as Symone moved to New York City to walk in top shows during New York fashion week - for Polo Ralph Lauren, Cushnie et Ochs and Naeem Khan while holding exclusives for brands like Alexander Wang and Victoria's Secret and later shooting various campaigns.

After moving to Europe, Symone is currently based between Paris and London and is busy working with top beauty clients like Yves Saint Laurent, Givenchy, Charlotte Tilbury, Nivea and Garnier. Symone has also shot for many amazing publications such as Grazia France, Madame Figaro, Numero Russia and Vogue.

Outside of work, Symone's hobbies include learning various coding languages and learning to how navigate the tech industry. She enjoys making music and has dreams of having a solid career in the music industry by ways of A&R and songwriting and aspires to complete her Criminology degree in the near future. Family is very important to Symone and keeps her grounded while traveling the world away from home.
