

Amanda Kay

Canadian born Amanda has been travelling the world since birth, never in one place for long; she has lived in Thailand, Dubai, London, Egypt, Jordan, and currently resides in Los Angeles. Amanda began her career working in business marketing (everything from energy conservation to web development!) but took a leap of faith age 32 and began to model full time. Amanda had always been reluctant to commit to modelling but as the industry became more inclusive she found she was being offered more and more opportunities which she decided to pursue. She is now an internationally represented model - working with some of the hottest brands in the world, including Savage X Fenty, Good American, Amazon and Fabletics.

In 2021 Amanda was featured in the top 10 for Sports Illustrated “Rookie of the Year”. Alongside this she was featured in the magazine’s prestigious Swimsuit Issue. Amanda began using her platform as a body-positive advocate, to showcase how curve models are making space in the fashion industry. Amanda aims for young women to feel beautiful no matter their body shape and encourages the importance of self-love and empowerment. Amanda hopes to be at the forefront of the body positive movement within modelling.
