

Harry Tibble

Moving to London to study at London College of Fashion was the beginning of Harry's career when he was scouted in a boutique straight after graduation. Harry has always had a great interest in fashion and used lockdown to develop his love for archive and vintage clothing collecting as well as begin his journey with us at Linden Staub.

He has worked for great clients such as Threadology and The Ragged Priest and has also walked for Central Saint Martins' Graduate Show. These opportunities have continued to inspire Harry who would love to work for Clients such as Yves Saint Laurent and Bottega, whose shows really inspire him.

Harry's social media profile reflects not only his career and behind the scenes moments at shows, but also his love unique vintage clothing, travelling with friends as well as a passion for film photography.
